MONTHLY PERFORMANCE REPORT

Ignore the Short-Term Challenges, Focus on the Long-Term Opportunities

Kamal Manocha
Founder & CEO

Dear Investors,

In October 2024, the Nifty 50 index experienced a sharp decline of 6.2%, marking its worst monthly performance since March 2020, closing at approximately 24,205.35. Major stocks like IndusInd Bank, BPCL, and Tata Motors were key contributors to the losses.

Factors Behind the Decline

1.1. Intensified FII Selling

- Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) sold over 77,000 crore in equities, leading to one of the highest monthly outflows on record.
- This aggressive FII exit created significant downward pressure on both the Nifty 50 and Sensex throughout October. Domestic Institutional Investors (DIIs) tried to offset this by investing around ₹92,932 crore, but it wasn't enough to counterbalance the FII sell-off.

Ignore the Short-Term Challenges, Focus on the Long-Term Opportunities

2. Geopolitical Tensions in the Middle East-

- The Middle East conflict escalated, with Iran's missile strikes on Israel sparking global risk aversion.
- This heightened geopolitical uncertainty created negative sentiment, affecting investor confidence in Indian markets and contributing to the sell-off.

3. Economic Data and Investor Reactions-

- Weak economic indicators and underwhelming corporate earnings reports further dampened market sentiment.
- Rising crude oil prices exacerbated inflation concerns, which weighed heavily on investor confidence and market performance.

4. SEBI Regulatory Changes-

- SEBI introduced new regulations regarding futures and options trading, perceived by some as restrictive, which led to additional market volatility and uncertainty.
- This added layer of regulation impacted trading sentiment, contributing to the month's downturn.

India's Growth Dip: A Hidden Opportunity for Investors?

Recent numbers show a slowdown in India's growth, but there's more beneath the surface—and it could mean big opportunities ahead. Here's what investors need to know:

➤ MEDIUM TERM POSITIVES:

- Government Spending on the Verge of Acceleration: The government's reduced capital expenditures during the election will likely be made up for in the latter half of the year, thereby boosting the overall economy. With the fiscal deficit tracking at 3.4% versus a budgeted 4.9%, government spending is actually down 1.2% from last year. Since government expenditure makes up 12% of GDP, this drag is a big piece of the puzzle. But here's the kicker: if the government hits its fiscal target, we could see a spending surge of 25% starting in October—a move that would likely light a fire under economic growth.
- The Growth Surprise Ahead: If the government boosts spending as needed, the economy—and markets—could be poised for an impressive upswing. This scenario would present a unique, high-growth environment that investors won't want to miss.
- Manufacturing sector capacity utilization is at an all-time high, which suggests that private investments in the sector will pick up.
- Conclusion of the US elections and the Federal Reserve looking to ease monetary policy further by the end of the year means higher liquidity, policy stability, and a modest growth outlook in the US. This could incentivize global investors and multinational corporations to invest outside the United States. India will likely benefit from these trends and see higher capital inflows translate into long-term investment and job opportunities.

Market Outlook

Market indices appear to be holding steady, not breaking long-term support of a “blood-bath.”

This could reflect either complacency towards geopolitical risks, a sense of calm and optimism about global economic growth, or confidence that central banks will step in to provide support whenever necessary.

Nevertheless, this correction may provide a solid buying opportunity given the strong domestic fundamentals.
